

The Scottish Lime Centre Trust have been selected by the National Association of Decorative & Fine Arts Societies (NADFAS) as being a suitable partner institution to distribute grants to conservation students through the Patricia Fay Memorial Fund.

This means that we are able to give financial assistance to learners who may have been unable to attend courses at Charlestown Workshops due to financial constraints.

Terms and Conditions

The scheme is open both to conservators in private practice, students of the built heritage and to employees of local authorities and most other public sector bodies who are working in conservation.

Successful applicants must undertake to submit a short feedback form on the course undertaken, to be returned to SLCT within two weeks of the course completion.

Any other reports submitted to an employer or for publication must acknowledge the support received from SLCT and NADFAS.
